Booze ban keeps sites serene: Province

► Temporary liquor bans in place at nine of the province's 250 parks

Campers may not appreciate long-weekend liquor bans but according to the province, the ban on booze is working.

Since 2004, when the temporary liquor-ban program was first implemented, unacceptable behaviours such as impaired driving, assaults and vandalism have decreased in these areas by an average of 90 per cent, according to a provincial spokesperson.

"The reduction of about 90 per cent has shown us that it has been an effective way to still allow people to enjoy the parks over the long weekend but still make it safe and friendly for everyone," said Erin Larson of Alberta Tourism, Parks and Recreation.

Larson said the decision to enforce a ban is based on previous incidents at particular parks.

"The sites selected are re-evaluated every year, and we do look at those enforcement stats and see if it's still required there or not," she said, adding the ban was removed at one of the parks this year.

Rather than deterring campers,

By the numbers

- Last May long weekend, traffic units laid more than 2,800 charges throughout the province — 2,269 were speeding violations.
- 154 impaired drivers were also charged and 14 were issued 24-hour suspensions.

Larson said the parks with bans tend to attract more families and those sites tend to remain popular.

RCMP Sgt. Dave Hardy said they have scaled back enforcement slightly over the last few years, as more Albertans are complying with rules, but added there will still be plenty of uniforms out this weekend.

"There will be checkpoints out in locations that have historically had high volumes of campers and recreational users," said Hardy. "We will be out just doing what we can to make sure people get to a destination safely." KATIE TURNER

Arena deal fuels 'Dome' discussions

Chatter of a framework arrangement for a new Edmonton arena circulated through Calgary hockey circles Thursday as Flames fans wondered if their team could someday find itself in new digs as well.

Ken Travers has been a Flames fan since the team arrived in Calgary and attends up to 20 games at the Saddledome each season.

"The building's outdated," he said. "They need more luxury suites generating income. It's certainly not modern anymore."

Flames spokesperson Peter Hanlon admits the team is watching proceedings on a new facility in Edmonton closely but would not speculate on local developments.

"We are not ready for that public discussion yet," he said.

Mayor Naheed Nenshi said he is open to discussing proposals for a new facility, adding "I have never been a huge fan of public dollars for that kind of infrastructure but I am willing to be open-minded."

Other Calgary groups speculated that a new facility could bring benefits beyond hockey.

"An arena facility that was more conducive to concerts would be an attraction for the city that would also bring in regional markets," said Randy Williams, president and CEO for Tourism Calgary.

► The Katz Group has stated the Oilers will not play at Rexall Place past 2014 and that a new downtown arena is needed. On Wednesday evening, city council approved an agreement framework between the city and the Katz Group to build one.

Downtown arena deal not done yet

- $100 million of downtown arena still remains to be funded
- Provincial, federal governments haven't made any promises

HEATHER MCINTYRE

Now that a major hurdle has been cleared toward getting a new downtown arena, the question remains whether or not the province will step up with the remaining $100 million.

Cam Hantiuk, spokesman for Premier Ed Stelmach, said Thursday any proposal would be looked at, but no direct funding will go toward any private business.

Late Wednesday, city council approved a framework, though not a binding and final agreement, between the city and the Katz Group to build a $450-million downtown arena.

Coun. Don Iveson, who voted against the framework, is concerned about the amount of public money headed for the project.

"If the province comes up with $100 million on top of the city's $125 million, that's half the cost of the building, plus land

Deal details

- The city's contribution will be $125 million, the Katz Group will contribute $100 million, and another $125 million will come from a ticket tax, which will be administered by the Katz Group.
- The framework includes a location agreement to keep the Oilers in Edmonton for 35 years.

and infrastructure," he said.

Meanwhile, Coun. Bryan Anderson, who voted in favour, said the deal could depend on Northlands because the Katz Group wants a non-competition clause.

"If Northlands refuses to accept ... then I think that, to me, is a deal breaker," he said.

Northlands' public relations director Cathy Kiss said they were "shocked" by the announcement Wednesday, but are interested in talking with the city about the next steps.

Students given option of distant learning

At this time of year students are usually preparing for final exams, and some even for graduation.

Students from Slave Lake, however, have other pressing matters on their minds.

The Alberta Distance Learning Centre activated their emergency plan earlier this week, giving students an option to continue with schooling as soon as possible.

Edmonton Public School Board spokesperson Jane Sterling says they've been asked by the province to accommodate students from Slave Lake into schools in Edmonton.

"It's important they're going to school," Sterling said. "They're under an awful lot of grown-up stress."

Slave Lake students from grades 1 through 12 are able to participate in classes here, but won't be marked on any material. They are also given access to counsellors, Sterling said.

Lori Nagy, of the Edmonton Catholic School Board, says this allows the students to stay in a routine.

So far a Grade 1 student has been taken into an Edmonton public school, and two elementary students are in the process of being taken into an Edmonton Catholic school.

Donations still pouring in Edmonton Emergency Relief Services is asking people to hold off on donations for victims of the Slave Lake wildfire for a couple of days.

"We're trying to secure another warehouse," Heather McCallum said Thursday.

If dropping something off this weekend, facecloths, towels, new shoes, new underwear and new pillows are the most needed, said McCallum — along with volunteers.

The centre, located at 10255-104 Street, will be closed on Sunday.

Financial donations of any size can be made through the Salvation Army and through the Canadian Red Cross.

Map of blaze damage released

► Alberta wildfire officials say rain showers Wednesday night helped conditions ► Thursday saw 72 wildfires burning across the province

Residents of fire-ravaged northern Alberta communities in and near Slave Lake are finally learning if their homes were engulfed by flames.

The town has released a detailed photographic map which shows 374 lots were destroyed by the wildfires that swept through the area Sunday evening. Another 52 lots were damaged. There is also a map of homes in the nearby Municipal District of Lesser Slave River which shows 59 lots were destroyed and 32 were damaged.

Flames forced roughly 7,000 people to flee from their homes.

Slave Lake Mayor Karina Pillay-Kinneer says many residents will be heartbroken by the news, but they need to know.

"This is a very emotional undertaking for everyone involved," she said Thursday as the maps were shown to people at evacuation centres in Athabasca, Westlock and Edmonton.

"I understand the anxiety residents have felt since being evacuated, not knowing if their home or business had been damaged or destroyed."

Prime Minister Stephen Harper and Alberta Premier Ed Stelmach are to tour the communities Friday.

Officials say it will be weeks before people are allowed to move back to the undamaged homes.

Alberta is working on a plan to get people out of evacuation centres and into temporary homes and to help students who have been forced from school.

The provincial Housing Department says people whose homes were not destroyed will be placed in short-term accommodation such as hotels until they can return home, with help from the Red Cross. Spokesman Dan Laville says residents whose homes were destroyed or damaged will get assistance finding longer-term rental accommodation. Details of the plan are to be announced in the coming days.

"Our goal is to help people move out of the evacuation centres as soon as we can," Laville said.

High hopes for mall obstacle course

- Ropes excursion similar to attraction at Minneapolis's Mall of America
- Each of the 3 levels contains 11 elements climbers must travel through

West Edmonton Mall visitors are being shown the ropes in a new attraction launched Thursday.

Ropes Quest is a three-level multi-hued course, which a mall spokesperson says is designed to get people out of their comfort zone.

"We have already had companies rent it for team-building exercises," said Sheri Clegg, who reluctantly tried the 12.8-metre-high challenge. "I'm not a heights person, but did I feel safe? Yes."

The $700,000 draw took an estimated 300 hours to install and contains about 1,476 bolts.

As at the attraction at Minneapolis's Mall of America — the only other ropes course in a shopping centre — users are strapped in a harness with a main rope line attached to an overhead rail system. They remain tethered throughout the tri-level trip.

Tightropes, bridges of wood and rope, and swaying balance beams add difficulty — in full view of mall patrons just outside the World Waterpark, and bookended by escalators.

"People can view you from all sides. It's certainly unique," said Clegg.

Kids under 42 inches can complete the course with a chaperone or parent.

There may have been five to begin with, but three is still a crowd.

After failing to come to a consensus on Wednesday as to which of five international firms would create a master plan to redevelop the City Centre Airport lands, city council was able to whittle the contestants down to three.

"This is an important decision that will have an impact on our city for decades to come, so it's important to take the time necessary to get it right," city manager Simon Farbrother said in a release.

BAN

forbidden across province

The province is taking extra precautions this long weekend by instituting a province-wide fire ban to prevent further wildfires in Alberta.

As of Thursday, there were more than 70 wildfires burning throughout the province, including a massive fire in the community of Slave Lake.

Information officer for Sustainable Resource Development Karen Ritchie said despite the forecast of wet weather in the southern part of the province, the ban was necessary.

With a large portion of the province's firefighting resources already being utilized in Northern Alberta, the rest of the province is not as protected, according to Ritchie.

"So many people have been exported to support the fires up north," she said. "What that means is they're completely utilized, so if there were a fire start, it's just that much more of an issue here."

Ritchie said the only fires that campers will be allowed this weekend will be for cooking appliances, such as propane or gas barbecues or pit stoves.

"I expect that people will primarily follow (the ban). In spite of the weather, they understand it's an important thing to do."

Conditions for campers may not be ideal during the first long weekend of the summer but at least one Albertan is determined to make the most of May long.

New mom Cindy Degrace, 24, has camped with her family and friends over the May long weekend for years, and the fire ban didn't make her reconsider "even for a second."

"We've been planning it so long, we can't call it off at this point because of a fire ban," said Degrace.

As for the booze ban, she and her fellow campers have long boycotted provincial campsites for their stringent rules. Instead, the crew sets up camp in a field off a service road near Caroline, Alta.

Rather than cancelling her yearly trip entirely, Calgarian Lori Chick will be heading west.

"We really like our camping, and you wait and you wait and you wait all winter, and then you wait for May long weekend to come, and then that happens," she said. "So, we decided to cancel that and we're heading to B.C., where we can have a fire."

Echoing Chick's feelings about the fire ban, Edmontonian Emily Cobb said she and her friends decided against making their yearly trek to a cabin near St. Paul.

She and her friends had fireworks and arrangements to unwind, but not being able to have a fire, a camping tradition, is like a big wet blanket on plans.

"Who wants to eat boiled hot dogs on the May long?" she asked. "With the money it takes for gas now, plus the fire ban, it's just not worth it."

Pimping 'big problem' in city

Edmonton police have charged a man after a woman claimed she was forced into prostitution and sexually and physically assaulted for years.

The woman reported the incidents in October 2010, and a second woman corroborated her information in December 2010, said police.

One man has been charged and more charges are pending against two more men. The charges are related to alleged incidents between 1990 and 2010.

Kate Quinn, executive director of Prostitution Awareness and Action Foundation of Edmonton (PAAFE) said she is encouraged the women had the strength to come forward years later.

"Pimping and assault are big problems in Edmonton, and they were especially 20 years ago," said Quinn. "And, sadly, now there are a new group of young women."

She urges anyone who feels exploited, threatened or abused to report it to EPS.

"The key message is, if you're lured, bullied, or assaulted, call police. There is a lot of help for you."

Stephen Robichaud, 46, was charged April 29 with procuring, living off the avails, sex assault, controlling and directing, assault and assault causing bodily harm. He faces nine prostitution- and assault-related charges dating back to 1990. He is in court June 7.

What's in a name? A family for one man

► Man finds true identity, reunited with family 66 years after separation from mother in WWII ► Man meets nephew in first visit to Germany since war

Peter Jaunzemis went by the name George for more than six decades, but always wondered whether the Latvian refugee who brought him to New Zealand and raised him there was really his mother.

"She didn't act like a mother," Jaunzemis, 69, said Thursday of the woman, Anna Jaunzemis. "She was cold, she never took me in her arms and never referred to me as her son."

Jaunzemis recently discovered his true identity through the help of the International Tracing Service (ITS) in the central German town of Bad Arolsen.

For more than a decade, Jaunzemis sought to trace his Latvian family roots. He found nothing, not even a birth certificate.

"I was getting nowhere, trying every variant I could think of, but it felt like I was turning in circles," Jaunzemis said.

Finally, a friend who was tracing her own family history suggested he turn to the ITS, which holds troves of World War II-era documents, including refugee lists, registers from displaced persons, or DP camps, and missing persons requests filed

"I am at peace with myself now. Before I felt that I was something that had dropped out of the sky."

PETER JAUNZEMIS

with the International Committee of the Red Cross.

Margret Schlenke, who heads the ITS department for missing persons, immediately found a file for Jaunzemis. But it also held another name, Peter van de Velde — a boy with the same birth date as Jaunzemis who had been removed from his mother at a DP camp in Belgium in June 1945.

The file, stuffed with more than 150 tattered, yellowing pages, contained old photos and letters from Jaunzemis' natural mother, Gertrud van de Velde, who for years sought for her son. She died in Brussels in 2009, months before he first wrote to the ITS.

Nevertheless Jaunzemis, who now goes by Peter, said he is relieved to finally know who he is and that he has family.

Spy vs. spy: Israel-Russia edition

An Israeli military attaché to Moscow who was expelled from Russia last week was carrying secret information when he was detained, Russia's Foreign Ministry said.

Vadim Leiderman was apprehended in Moscow on May 12, caught red-handed receiving classified information from a Russian citizen, the statement said. Leiderman was declared persona non grata and given 48 hours to leave the country, which he did.

Israel's military rejected allegations that Leiderman was a spy, saying in a statement the officer was debriefed after he returned.

Gad Shimron, an intelligence expert and former field operative for the Mossad, told Israel's Channel 10 TV that based on the information he knows the odds of Leiderman being a spy are "extremely small."

Intelligence officer sells secret docs to undercover

A 22-year-old U.S. Navy sailor pleaded guilty Thursday to four counts of attempted espionage for trying to sell classified documents to someone he believed was a Chinese intelligence officer.

Petty Officer 2nd Class Bryan Minkyu Martin of Mexico, New York, faces a maximum sentence of life in prison.

At a court martial in Norfolk, Martin said Thursday that he accepted $11,500 from an undercover FBI agent known to him only as "Mr. Lee" in exchange for information, documents, photographs and images that were classified as secret or top secret. The documents involved naval operations and intelligence assessments related to military operations in Afghanistan and Iraq. Authorities say the documents were delivered to the agent in November and December.

Martin is an intelligence specialist who was stationed at Fort Bragg in North Carolina at the time, preparing for a deployment to Afghanistan. He worked at the base's Joint Special Operations Command and downloaded and printed documents from his desktop computer while at work, sometimes walking out with them folded up in his pants pocket.

He said he wanted to sell the documents to the Chinese because he believed they would pay the most for them. Prosecutors declined to say how Martin made the initial contact that ultimately got him in touch with the undercover agent.

Martin said he had spoken with the undercover agent by telephone, but had never seen him until their first meeting in a hotel lobby, saying he identified "Mr. Lee" because he was reading a Chinese newspaper.

The undercover agent never showed any identification to prove he worked for the Chinese government and Martin said he was initially cautious that he might not be legitimate.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Background

Martin also pleaded guilty to seven charges levied against him for mishandling classified documents.

- 1 He earned $500 at the first meeting for verbally sharing classified information he gleaned while training at the Defence Intelligence Agency and at Fort Bragg, which he was stationed at beginning in September of 2010.
- 2 Martin said he had three other meetings with the undercover agent at various hotels in Spring Lake, North Carolina.
- 3 At each of those subsequent meetings, he signed receipts for payment of the documents.
- 4 His sentencing hearing is scheduled to last through Friday.

Bin Laden praises Arab Spring in taped message

► Attempts to stake a claim for al-Qaida in protests led mainly by youth fed up with government abuses

In a recording made shortly before his death, Osama bin Laden praised the mass protests that have toppled and shaken longtime rulers across the Arab world while trying to cast a role for al-Qaida.

Bin Laden's message, released on militant websites Thursday, is an attempt by the terror leader to remain relevant after sweeping changes in which al-Qaida played almost no role.

"The winds of change will spread through the entire Islamic world, God willing," bin Laden said.

He proclaimed it a "religious obligation" to form a council that would provide guidance for all Muslims — apparently a way for al-Qaida to play a role in the protests' future.

While not mentioning al-Qaida by name, he advised people struggling against their governments to remember "those who advised early on the necessity of uprooting these oppressive regimes" — a clear reference to the militant group.

Though both bin Laden and the West have generally supported protest movements in the Middle East, their goals differ.

The West hopes the protests will bring democratic reforms. Bin Laden and his followers hoped they would lead to governments based on strict interpretation of Islamic law.

Bin Laden was killed by U.S. Navy SEALs May 2.

'Great Firewall' designer pelted

- ▶ Egg and shoes thrown at Chinese online censor
- ▶ Strict Internet curbs hated by country's web users

Chinese police were seeking the man who allegedly threw an egg and shoes yesterday at the computer scientist famous for designing China's Great Firewall of web controls.

The attack — if true — is a particularly bold one for China and underscores how strongly people feel about the country's strict Internet censorship.

A Twitter user posting under the name "hanunyi" claimed that one of the shoes struck computer expert Fang Binxing while he was visiting Wuhan University in Hubei province.

Fang reviled

▶ Fang Binxing has felt the ire of the online community before. When he launched his microblog in December, it was taken down within hours after anonymous posters peppered it with hundreds of caustic or sarcastic comments.

Fang, president of Beijing University of Posts and Telecommunications, is popularly known as the "father of the Great Firewall" and is reviled by many Chinese web users.

An officer at the Luojiang Public Security Bureau confirmed police were sent to the university to investigate a shoe-throwing incident that targeted Fang. The officer, who refused to give his name, said Fang was on his way to the airport.

Hanunyi posted a live account of the alleged shoe toss on his Twitter page, including photos of the door to the lecture hall where it happened, a hand clutching an egg in preparation and bare feet after he fled.

Wage-gap wisdom?

► Study suggests women's low expectations may cause inequality

Female university grads looking for their first jobs expect to earn less than men, and those lower expectations may be the reason the actual wage gap persists, a new study says.

"Women know they currently aren't earning as much as men, so they enter the workforce with that expectation," said Sean Lyons, a University of Guelph researcher who helped conduct the study.

"Because they don't expect to earn as much, they likely aren't as aggressive when it comes to negotiating salaries or pay raises and will accept lower-paying jobs than men, which perpetuates the existing inequalities."

When asked to estimate their starting salaries, female students entering the work world predicted their paycheques would be 14 per cent lower than the wages men said they expected to pull.

The gap widened over the course of their anticipated careers, with women expecting to make 18 per cent less than men after five years. And it was most pronounced in male-dominated fields such as science and engineering.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Statistics Canada says the real gap in salary between university-educated women and men is 22 per cent. That is, women earn only 68 cents for every dollar earned by equally qualified men.

The 'sexiest time machine'

► For those who read the articles, users can search writers such as Hunter S. Thompson, Jack Kerouac, Norman Mailer and Kurt Vonnegut

Good news for those who thought their copies of Playboy were gone forever when their moms found them and threw them away.

Playboy launched a web-based subscription service Thursday called i.playboy.com that allows viewers to see every single page of every single magazine — from the first issue nearly 60 years ago that featured Marilyn Monroe to the ones hitting the newsstands today.

"They no longer have to store 57 years — 682 issues — of Playboy under their mattress," said Jimmy Jellinek, Playboy's chief content officer.

Chicago-based Playboy has seen its circulation plummet to 1.5 million today from 3.15 million in 2006 and has been trying all sorts of gimmicks to attract readers in recent years. One issue included a set of 3-D glasses to better see a centrefold shot in 3-D; another turned over the cover to a cartoon character, Marge Simpson.

Jellinek calls the website "the world's sexiest time machine" and "an anthology of cool" for a magazine he refers to as "the Mount Rushmore of literary greatness." But one industry analyst makes Playboy sound more like a tired, dusty half-empty amusement park.

"The problem with Playboy is it not only lost its powerful interviews, but it lost its lead," said Samir Husni, director of the Magazine Innovation Center at the University of Mississippi School of Journalism.

Print editions an old story? E-books outsell on Amazon

► Kindle now cheaper than ever and shows ads in standby mode ► Print sales surpassed in just four years

Amazon.com says it's selling more electronic books than printed books, less than four years after it started selling e-books.

Since April 1, Amazon.com Inc. says it has sold 105 e-books for every 100 printed books, including printed books for which there is no electronic edition.

The comparison excludes free e-books.

Printed books include both hardcover and paperback books. Amazon said in July that e-book sales had outstripped hardcover sales.

Amazon also says the latest and cheapest version of its Kindle e-book reading device is the bestseller of the line, five weeks after it was introduced. It costs $114, and shows ads in standby mode.

Pilots reject Air Canada deal

Air Canada pilots have voted to reject a tentative agreement negotiated between their union and Canada's largest airline, which says it will carry on business as usual.

The Air Canada Pilots Association said Thursday that 67 per cent of the votes cast by its members were against the agreement.

The union will return to the bargaining table to address the concerns of the pilots, said association president Paul Strachan.

God declares your responsibility to warn all peoples under your authority.

John 15:13 Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends.

Ezekiel 33:6 But if the watchman see the sword come, and blow not the trumpet, and the people be not warned; if the sword come, and take any person from among them, he is taken away in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at the watchman's hand.

NO MAN KNOWS THE DAY OR THE HOUR?

Daniel 12:4 But thou, O Daniel, shut up the words, and seal the book, even to the time of the end: many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased. [At the end of time, Man will know!]

The Bible declares that "No Man Knows" is describing the unsaved condition of mankind. If you are saved then we may know all things spiritually discerned in God's Word.

1Cor 2:10-19 But God hath revealed them [true gospel] unto us [true believers] by his Spirit: for the Spirit searcheth all things [true gospel], yea, the deep things [true gospel] of God. 12 Now we [true believers] have received ~ the spirit which is of God: that we might know the things [true gospel] that are freely given to us [true believers] of God. 14 But the natural man receiveth not the things [true gospel] ~ for they are foolishness unto him: neither can he know them [=No unsaved man knows] because they are spiritually discerned. 19 ~ we have the mind of Christ.

Noah knew when the flood would occur, Abraham was told of the destruction of Sodom, In fact, Amos 3:7 shows, God required Himself to declare every judgment before it occurred

Amos 3:7 Surely the Lord GOD will do nothing, but he revealeth his secret unto his servants the prophets.

HAROLD CAMPING A PROPHET?

In Camping's book 1994? he discovered an important end date for this world. However, because God had not finished revealing all the truths of the timeline in the Bible, Mr. Camping misunderstood the significance of that end date against the language in Matthew 24:22 "Except those days be shortened there should no flesh be saved". This language led him to believe God was speaking of the end of the world. The only correction to Mr. Camping's work in the book 1994? is that this language "those days be shortened" was pointing to the all important end of the first half of The Great Tribulation. The significance is; The first half was a period when virtually no one was being saved. It wasn't until the second half of The Great Tribulation (Which we are at the end of now) when God started the ingathering that He describes as "The latter rain" where "A great multitude that no man can number" shall be saved.

Mr. Camping's work remains viable today because this crucial milestone helps us know for certain when the second part of The Great Tribulation began.

Critics ignore the "?" in the title and the fact that Mr. Camping was quite clear in his book that 2011 was an alternative year for the end of the world.

Through the efforts of thousands of critical listeners, all doubt has been removed regarding the faithfulness of Harold Camping's study of "God's Time line of History"

Using The Bible's definition of "Prophet" as one who brings the truth of God's word then Harold Camping and those who have validated his work are the real deal.

CHRIST DID KNOW?

Mark 13:32 But of that day and that hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels which are in heaven, neither the son, but the Father.

Notice that Mark 13:32 does not say "Christ" does not know. It is easily proved that the language "the son" cannot be pointing to Christ as follows:

The original Greek did not use capital letters in the word "son".

1Cor2: The Spirit of God knows all things.
Col 2:9 For in him [Christ] dwelleth all the fulness of the Godhead bodily.

To say "Christ does not know all things" is to say Christ did not have the Spirit of God in him. This is blasphemy against the Holy Spirit. Who else could "the son" be pointing to? Satan is called "The son of perdition" "The angels in heaven" is pointing to "The fallen angels" which were cast out heaven when Christ went to the cross. Rev 12

A multitude of faithful Bible students, that no man can number, agree:

The end of this world, beginning on MAY 21 2011, is established by God's Word The Holy Bible and God will shortly bring it to pass.

A MESSAGE OF HOPE:

The date of judgment has been set by God, is declared in "The Holy Bible" and is being understood by a great multitude that no man can number. Our heartfelt prayer is that all readers take earnest heed of this warning and "Cry out to God for mercy" while you "Search" for truth on your own. Go to www.timehasanend.org and compare its faithfulness to The Bible for yourself. Psalm 51:17 The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit: a broken and a contrite heart, O God, thou wilt not despise.

Tyler, the Creator, the frontman for Odd Future and one of hip hop's weirdest up-and-comers, recently received the ire of one-half of Tegan and Sara for his misogynistic and homophobic lyrical content. The conversation took to the Twitterverse and somehow the issue morphed into a discourse on free speech. This, of course, isn't a free speech issue — it's an idiot-with-a-platform issue.

4 The Biebs. This week Forbes announced that Justin Bieber, the boy wonder from Stratford, Ont., is officially the third most influential celebrity in the world. He has made teen girls swoon, sold out a world tour and starred in a top-grossing film, not to mention selling his footwear and hair on eBay for $5,500 and $40,558, respectively. Apparently, that's the stuff influence is made of. Speaking of the Apocalypse ...

On Wednesday, he was in Toronto to discuss the work with Indigo "chief book lover" Heather Reisman, which will surely be a boon for sales. In today's world, liars remain unpunished — instead, they seem to be roundly rewarded.

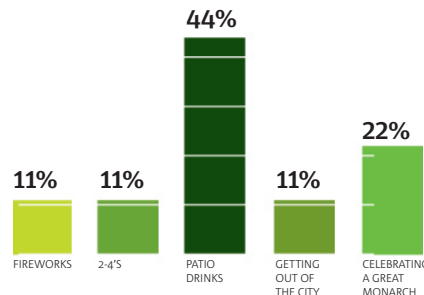

6 The Gos. It looks like Canadian kid Ryan Gosling is going to try his hand at directing. Word is The Notebook heartthrob will star in his own directorial debut, a remake of the 1980s musical The Idolmaker. Bieber may be Canada's most influential celebrity icon, but the Gos is the Canadian Renaissance man. He acts, he produces, he sings and now he is going to direct. Also, like Ferris Bueller, he seems to be a righteous dude.

1 End days. According to Harold Camping, the head of the Christian radio network Family Stations Inc., the world will end Saturday. Apparently, an earthquake will shake the Earth and the true believers will be swept up to heaven, while the rest of us are left behind to bear witness to the destruction of all human life. From Camping: "We know without any shadow of a doubt it is going to happen."

WHITE ROCK, B.C. Prime Minister Stephen Harper's latest Senate appointments must be called into question. Senators are to be a check on the prime minister, his cabinet and his House of Commons majority. They have the responsibility of providing "sober second thought" from their appointed positions. Appointing defeated candidates to the Senate cannot be considered otherwise than directly conflicting with this responsibility.

Have Harper's purely partisan personal appointees committed to voting as he pleases? Is that not vote buying? Is Harper not again in contempt of Parliament in making such appointments?

Neither abolishing nor electing senators serves the purpose that the chamber was meant to serve when Canada came into being. A process that will enable the Senate to play its designated role that Harper has completely destroyed is to have senators appointed by the Governor General upon the recommendation of the Queen's Privy Council for Canada.

WEIRD NEWS

She may be a little slow on the draw, though

The highest court in Oregon unanimously ruled Thursday that retired bus driver Cynthia Willis can have her medical marijuana and a concealed handgun, too.

The ruling issued in Salem, Ore., upheld previous decisions by the Oregon Court of Appeals and circuit court in finding that a federal law barring criminals and drug addicts from buying firearms does not excuse sheriffs from issuing concealed weapons permits to people who hold medical marijuana cards and otherwise qualify.

"We hold that the Federal Gun Control Act does not pre-empt the state's concealed handgun licensing statute and, therefore, the sheriffs must issue (or renew) the requested licences," Chief Justice Paul De Muniz wrote.

Willis welcomed the ruling. "I feel like a big girl now," she said. "I feel like a real human being now, not just a source of revenue to the county."

Oregon became one of the first states in the U.S. to authorize people to use marijuana to treat medical conditions when voters approved an initiative in 1998.

▶ Johnny Depp stars in Pirates of the Caribbean: On Stranger Tides, the fourth movie in the Pirates franchise.

It's time to jump ship

► Richard Crouse and Mark Breslin debate Pirates of the Caribbean: On Stranger Tides ► Mermaids are great, but not much else to write home about

Richard Crouse: Mark, my main question after watching the new Pirates movie is, If this was the first one of the series would we have had a two, three and four? I don't think so. It's a big splashy epic, but lacks the fun and Johnny's joie de vivre of the original. What say you, matey?

Mark Breslin: Richard, I wasn't even a fan of the original. And no franchise should exceed a trilogy unless the words "godfather" or "cheerleaders" are in the title. An appreciation of this movie is contingent upon how you feel about Johnny Depp and how much swordplay you can handle. I adore Depp's brilliant characterization in the series, but really, the tricks are starting to show their age. And I didn't like swashbuckling even when Douglas Fairbanks did it in 1932. Still, I thought this edition of Pirates was the best since the original, whatever that means.

RC: I don't think this one has the spark of the others. It's not as funny, Depp seems like he's gone back to the Captain Jack treasure chest one too many times and the action scenes, despite the 3-D, don't fly off the screen the way they have in the past. I liked the mermaids and think their attack sequence is the most exciting thing in the movie, but I may be wrong simply because the movie is so dark I may have missed something.

MB: Oh, those mermaids! Who knew they spoke in a Scandinavian accent? Yes, they are the most exciting thing in the movie, although I did enjoy Ian MacShane's villainy. But despite the fountain of youth plot device, these Pirates are getting old. And you're right about how dark the film is: I was straining to make out which pirate was which. Quick clue: Depp is the Pirate Who's Had A Bit Of Work Done.

RC: Ha! Perhaps playing the same character four times in eight years is too much for Depp, or perhaps the limitations of Captain Jack are becoming apparent but he's not as entertaining as before. Not that director Rob Marshall helps him. The action sequences are as well choreographed as you might expect from the man who made Chicago and Nine, but they are also as exciting as you would expect from a man who specializes in making musicals.

MB: I see what you're getting at. For the next installment, make it a musical complete with a chorus line of mermaids!

Cooper loves his wolfpack

► Hangover star says bond with co-stars is the secret ingredient for movie's success ► Sequel gets darker

SCENE@METRONews.ca

Although the antics are amped up in The Hangover: Part II, star Bradley Cooper admits shooting the anticipated comedy was at least easier than the first.

"There's a certain amount of ease in knowing the character — having all this history," said Cooper recently in Toronto. "There was a lot less preparation because the preparation was already (in doing) a movie. That's a hell of a lot of rehearsal time to have another movie under your belt."

pearance of the bride's 16-year-old brother and a mysterious drug-dealing monkey.

"The stakes are so high in this movie. It gets darker and because of that the three of us have to go to places making it believable but you have to deal with these crazy circumstances," Cooper said.

He explained that the movie's secret is in the camaraderie with co-stars Zach Galifianakis and Ed Helms.

"It's the reason I would do seven of these movies ... it was just really wonderful to see what would come out of that — things that weren't in the script," he said.

Reluctant 3-D user Bay ended up loving it

America's first mission to the moon wasn't just about scientific advancement and national pride; it was about investigating the crash of a mysterious Cybertronian spaceship.

So begins Transformers

ers: Dark of the Moon, the third installment in the sci-fi franchise inspired by Hasbro's line of shape-shifting toys. Director Michael Bay showed about 15 minutes of assorted footage from his first 3-D film Wednesday as part of a discussion with filmmaker James Cameron about the challenges and benefits of 3-D moviemaking. Though Bay was initially skeptical about the multidimensional medium ("It might be a gimmick," he said in 2009), he said he "ended up loving it."

"It was just great to sculpt with space," he said. "It just felt right for this movie."

Cameron helped convince his fellow filmmaker to embrace 3-D technology and employ it in the latest Transformers adventure, set for domestic release on July 1.

Kung Fu Panda 2 a 'passion project'

► Sequel gets a new director who was excited to step up to the plate ► Crew watched kung fu movies in down time

PHIL BROWN
SCENE@METRONWS.CA

For anyone with a place in their hearts for kung fu movies and absurdly cute CGI animals, the release of Kung Fu Panda 2 is cause for giddy excitement. The first film was a critical success that also cleaned up at the box office in 2008 and Dreamworks Animation began work on the sequel shortly after it opened in theatres.

Jennifer Yuh Nelson was key member of the creative/design team on the original Kung Fu Panda and was promoted to director for this second outing.

Speaking to Metro, the filmmaker said she was thrilled to return. "I was always ready to keep going regardless of whether I was the director or not and a lot of the same group stayed on because everyone loved the first movie so much. It was always a passion project for everyone involved and that continued on the sequel."

Creating a CGI animated film on this scale was a huge undertaking for the director, who worked on the project for three years before it was complete.

"We didn't start seeing finish animated sequences until about a year and a half out," admitted Nelson. "It trickles in a little at a time and it's always a shock when you're working with rough black and white storyboards that you're used to and then all of a sudden you see the same scenes in gorgeous colour animation. It's a big jolt for the crew, because you suddenly realize what the final film will look like."

To help break up the tedium during the long production, Nelson said the crew would hold "kung fu movie lunches," watching an endless list of classic titles in the genre to inspire the vast team of animators.

"We'd watch everything from Drunken Master to Kung Fu Hustle," said the director. "That's one of the reasons why these movies aren't parodies. They are a homage to movies that we all really love."

BEST TIME OF THE YEAR SOUND CHECK

ALAN CROSS
SCENE
@METRONEWS.CA

After a cold winter and a cool, and for many, disastrously wet spring, Canadians are possessed by hopeful optimism about what the next four months will bring.

This means it's also time to load up on some new music.

Ben Harper/Give Till It's Gone (out now): Most of Ben's best records have been released in either the spring or summer, making them great soundtracks for heading camping or laying out on the beach.

His 10th studio album, which again features his band, The Relentless 7-fits, that bill.

Moby/Destroyed (out now): Electronica's favourite bald vegan returns with an album written mostly in hotel rooms in the middle of the night. Listening to this album in the daytime doesn't feel quite right, but in the middle of the night, it makes all the sense in the world.

Eddie Vedder/Ukulele Songs (out May 31): When you're one of the most famous singers in the world, you can do whatever you want, including recording a solo album where you play the ukulele.

Rumour has it that Eddie originally planned this project as gift to friends and family, but it turned out so well that it's getting a proper release.

Laugh track to hit tracks

▶ Donald Glover is not the first comedian to make the jump to musician

In the early days of film and television, variety was king. Elvis had starring roles, the Rat Pack all sang in their movies and while Jackie Gleason had one of the highest-rated shows on TV as a bus driver with a comically short fuse, he was also releasing albums of romantic mood music.

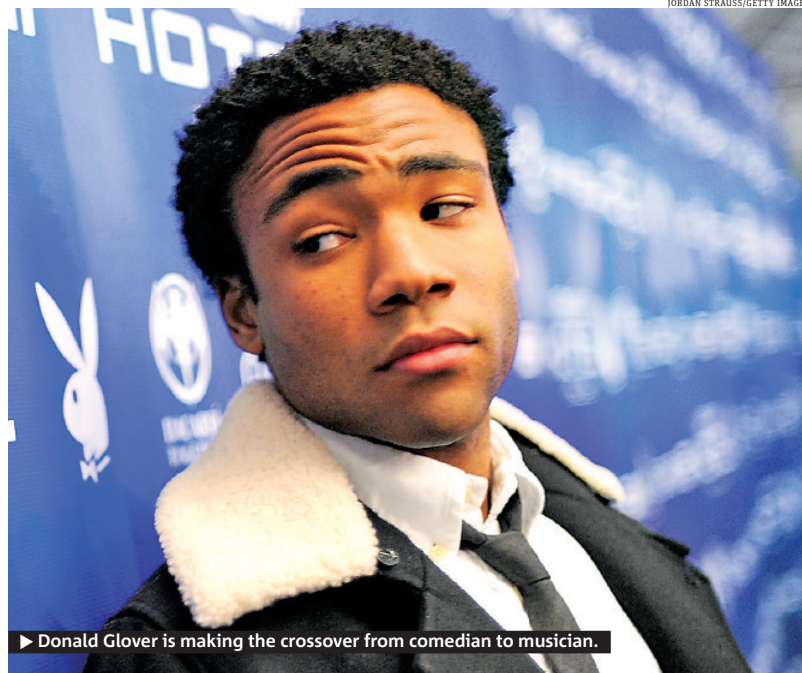

But as the modern entertainment industry evolved, the public gradually became less accepting of stars who established themselves in one medium, then tried to succeed in another.

But now that reality television is the norm, the world might be more accepting of a comic actor who turns to music, like Donald Glover.

As Troy, the naive and excitable former jock on NBC's Community, he is hilarious, and as a rapper leading Childish Gambino, Glover is more than proficient, rocking a shockingly different persona than viewers may have thought they knew. Here are a few others who crossed over.

Steve Martin

Martin always put goofy songs on his comedy albums but his 2009 album, ▶ Donald Glover is making the crossover from comedian to musician.

The Crow: New Songs for the 5-String Banjo, proved he could gracefully transition into a medium that requires players to be well-versed in its tradition. It also helps when Earl Scruggs guests.

Eddie Murphy

After tucking funny songs between comedy tracks on his albums, Murphy decided to take music seriously.

His Rick James-produced anthem, Party All the Time, went to No. 2 on the charts in 1985. Most of his follow-up singing work was met with less enthusiasm. Whatzupwitu, a 1993 duet with Michael Jackson, made listeners wonder the same about Murphy.

Adam Sandler

Sandler mastered the funny-guy-with-the-guitar thing on Saturday Night Live, and some of the songs on his first two comedy albums were absurd enough to make your stomach hurt.

But 1997's What's Your Name? is all songs, and though the musicianship is impressive, the lyrics fly somewhere between funny and sincere, and it falls flat.

Expressing individuality

Live loud and prosper: Gaga sets example with her unique individuality

Rock 'n' roll and its sub-genres have always had an outcast component. Because many of the people making this type of music were misfits growing up, they have occasionally found inspiration in singing about their outsider status.

But where The Who sang, "hope I die before I get old," in their 1965 song, My Generation, singers these days are using a more encouraging tone. Lady Gaga puts her personality on parade by saying that she was Born This Way, and Ke$ha lets her freak flag fly by singing We R Who We R.

Uniqueness

► A few of the other songs about being different in all the right ways:

► Rebel Rebel by David Bowie (1974); Written by David Bowie. Sample lyric: "You've got your mother in a whirl/ She's not sure if you're a boy or a girl/ Hey babe, your hair's alright"

► The Greatest Love of All by Whitney Houston (1985);

Pink is currently telling her listeners, "don't you ever, ever feel like you're less than f—in' perfect" while Katy Perry tells hers that they "don't have to feel like a wasted space" in

Written by: Michael Masser and Linda Creed. Sample lyric: "If I fail, if I succeed/ At least I live as I believe/ No matter what they take from me/ They can't take away my dignity"

But why are all these women singing so many anthems of individuality all of a sudden? Ke$ha says she thinks it's about awareness.

"I wrote We R Who We R because I read about a bunch of teenage boys who killed themselves because they were bullied at school for being 'different,'" she says. "I also wasn't like everyone else in school and was a bit misunderstood. As I've gotten older, I'm happy I wasn't like everyone else. And I wanted these kids to have an anthem that expressed that."

Gaga told Metro that she's seen how the message of Born This Way has moved her younger fans, and when she's talking about their generation it seems to resonate more.

"The new generation is very affected by the lack of equality," she says. "I noticed I had 12- and 13-year-

► What does Lady Gaga's handwriting say about her? Metro finds out

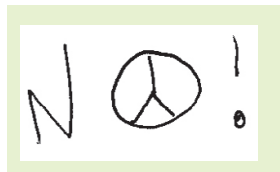

CARLY BALDWIN
SCENE@METRONWS.CA

The estimable Lady Gaga served as Metro's guest editor on Tuesday and we got her to answer some of our questions in her own handwriting.

Which, of course, raises the question: What does Lady Gaga's penmanship say about her?

Metro consulted Dennis Duez, a Pittsburgh-based handwriting analyst who has scrutinized the writings of Britney Spears (she's very obstinate) and former New York Gov. Eliot Spitzer (he needs romance, but does not trust it). After taking a look at Gaga handwriting samples, Duez deduced:

- Lady Gaga is a strongly independent, and a my-way-or-the-highway person, as evidenced by her straight up and sometimes slanted slightly to the left lettering.

She believes that her way is the right way, said

Duez. Critics beware!

- Gaga does not like to be misunderstood, as evidenced by copious amounts of printed text and is a strong communicator. See open tops on lower case "O," "A," and "D" characters.

- Her handwriting evidences a strong performance talent, indicated by the broad "T" bar crossings.

- Honesty is critical for Gaga; when someone lies to her they are gone, gone, said Duez. See the constant use of uppercase, cobra strike "S" through out her writing.

- Apparently, there is an old relationship that has not quite faded from Gaga's memory, theorizes Duez. It may still return, unbidden, in dreams, he said. See the beginning arc in the ending "y" in "humanity."

- And, our personal favourite: There is evidence of a strong impact to Gaga's left leg/knee/shin area. This shows up on the dent on the "g" at the end of "unassuming" and in several other "y" characters in her handwriting sample.

Shriver could write a memoir

► Maria Shriver

DOROTHY ROBINSON
METRO WORLD NEWS
METRO WORLD NEWS IN NEW YORK

While Maria Shriver continues to deal with the fallout of husband Arnold Schwarzenegger's admission of fathering a child with a long-time staffer, it's important for her to remember that all is not lost: She can always write a memoir! In fact, she'll join an esteemed "wronged political wife" collection of authors. Here, other political wives share what they felt like when they were in the same situation, via excerpts from their books.

- Her husband may have cheated, but Maria Shriver's story could sell
- Why not pen a book about her marriage like these other political wives?

Who: Dina Matos McGreevey
Title: Silent Partner: A Memoir of My Marriage

The husband's indiscretion: Ex-husband New Jersey Gov. Jim McGreevey admitted to being a "gay American" as he left office in 2004.
Helpful excerpt: "When love goes out the door, courtship stories may go into the attic, never to be told again. It's no fun to recount the birth of a love that died a horrible death. My sadness and yes, my anger, cast long shadows and obscure much that was hopeful and happy."

Who: Hillary Clinton
Title: Living History

The husband's indiscretion: In case you've forgotten, her husband Bill Clinton had an affair with intern Monica Lewinsky while President of the United States.

Helpful excerpt: "I could hardly breathe. Gulping for air, I started crying and yelling at him, 'What do you mean? What are you saying? Why did you lie to me?'"

Who: Jenny Sanford
Title: Staying True

The husband's indiscretion: South Carolina's first lady Jenny Sanford was thrust into the national spotlight in June 2009 when her husband, Gov. Mark Sanford, admitted to travelling to Argentina to visit his lover — a.k.a. "hiking the Appalachian Trail."
Helpful excerpt: "What my future held was something I, the woman who always thought years ahead, now couldn't imagine. Could I imagine a life without Mark, the man whose ambitions had been the centre of all that we had done as a family for 20 years?"

Who: Elizabeth Edwards
Title: Resilience: Reflections on the Burdens and Gifts of Facing Life's Adversities

Elizabeth Edwards

Resilience

The husband's indiscretion: Wife of former U.S. Senator John Edwards was outed by the National Enquirer for having an affair with freelance videographer Rielle Hunter in 2007; in 2010, he admitted to fathering a child with her.
Helpful excerpt: "I felt that the ground underneath me had been pulled away. I wanted him to drop out of the race, protect our family from this woman, from his act."

► Judah Friedlander is currently on his World Champion standup tour.

Is it time for fans to start worrying about 30 Rock?

► Actor Judah Friedlander doesn't think the popular show is done yet

Judah Friedlander says the recent postponement of Season 6 of 30 Rock isn't anything to worry about.

The actor, who plays trucker hat-loving Frank Rossitano on the acclaimed TV comedy series, says NBC was sincere earlier this week when it cited Tina Fey's pregnancy as the reason it's pushing the Season 6 debut to next January.

"Here's what's going on, to my knowledge: Tina Fey is pregnant, not by (co-star) Tracy Morgan and not by me, as far as I can remember," Friedlander, 42, wise-cracked in a recent phone interview to promote his standup show at Toronto's Second City on Thursday.

"Now, the thing is, Tina Fey is having a baby soon and I believe she's having the baby around the time we normally start filming for the new season, so our start time is actually being delayed some," he continued.

"We're going to start filming later than normal, so because of that our show has to air later than normal. So to my knowledge that's what that's all about."

Despite critical praise and a slew of awards, 30 Rock has failed to attract blockbuster ratings and its future has frequently been in doubt.

With star Alec Baldwin's contract set to expire in 2012, and with the recent Season 6 postponement, fans have recently been more concerned than usual. The Atlantic Wire also recently published an article questioning the future of the show, opening with the sentence: "Is it time to start worrying about 30 Rock?"

However, Friedlander is confident they'll be back. "We are guaranteed for at least one more season and after that we don't know yet," he said.

During the 30 Rock hiatus, Friedlander will be busy with his World Champion standup tour.

The title for Friedlander's tour, as his fans well know, stems from his eccentric public persona as a standup comedian.

With a bushy beard and long locks, thick glasses, and T-shirts and trucker hats emblazoned with his World Champion slogan (sometimes in other languages and even in braille), the jokester boasts onstage and in interviews that he's an undefeated master of martial arts, among many other things.

Maria Shriver has reportedly hired top celebrity divorce lawyer Laura Wasser, whose past clients have included Angelina Jolie, Christina Aguilera and Britney Spears, according to People magazine.

But that doesn't necessarily mean that her marriage to former California

"Maria hasn't decided yet if she wants to end her marriage," a source says, adding that Shriver hired Wasser before news of Schwarzenegger's affair and child with a former housekeeper got out.

David and Victoria Beckham have reportedly set the date to welcome their first daughter, planning the birth for July 4 in a private hospital in Los Angeles, according to the Sun.

The Beckhams, who already have three sons, were reportedly planning to welcome the girl at London's Portland Hospital.

Ingredients:

- 50 ml (1/4 cup) mayonnaise
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) mustard powder
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) honey
- 5 ml (1 tsp) cider vinegar
- 1 red bell pepper, cored and thinly sliced
- 1 green bell pepper, cored and thinly sliced
- 1 yellow bell pepper, cored and thinly sliced
- Salt and ground black pepper
- 2 chipotle peppers in adobo sauce
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) prepared barbecue sauce
- 2 cloves garlic
- 500 g (1 lb) 85 per cent lean ground beef
- 250 ml (1 cup) shredded cheddar cheese
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) finely chopped black olives
- 4 large potato buns, toasted
- 1 large tomato, thickly sliced bed for the burger. You can keep it simple by substituting whichever prepared slaw you prefer.

Preparation:

- 1 In bowl, whisk mayo, mustard powder, honey and vinegar. Add all 3 peppers, toss to coat. Season with salt and pepper, then set aside.
- 2 Heat a grill or grill pan to medium-high.
- 3 In food processor, combine chipotle peppers, barbecue sauce and garlic. Puree until smooth. Transfer to bowl. Add ground beef, 2 ml (1/2 tsp) salt and 1 ml (1/4 tsp) black pepper, mix.
- 4 Divide ground beef mixture into quarters. One at a time, form each quarter into a cup in the palm of your hand. Add 50 ml (1/4 cup) of the cheese and a sprinkling of the black olives to the centre of each cup, then push beef over it to completely cover cheese. Carefully form beef into a patty.
- 5 Coat grill grates with oil. Grill burgers for 8 minutes for medium-well or until desired doneness.
- 6 Top bottom half of each bun with some pepper slaw, then a burger, then a slice of tomato.

I'm a bit of a barbecue weenie. At my house, boy meets grill until mid-fall. Then I wheel my gas-fired grill into the garage until Victoria Day.

She's ready to make her 2011 debut this long weekend, and when it comes to picking a wine to match grilled meats, I look for juice that can hold its own against the intensity of the meat, the influence of the marinade and, since I'm a bit of a hamburger aficionado, any condiments I decide to lather on when meat hits bun.

Think young, jammy and red. It's not time to uncork that Bordeaux you've had since midway through the last century. Best bets are Californian zinfandel and merlot, Aussie shiraz, Chilean cabernet sauvignon, and for a taste of the Old World, a Barbera d'Asti from Italy's Piedmont region.

In Argentina, barbecue is a way of life and a red like Trapiche's 2010 Varietals Malbec ($9.00 - $11.99) — with dark, blueberry flavour, balanced tannins and spice trail — is a grill match made in Mendoza. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS CANADA. Boston regains defensive prowess

► Seguin scores again after sitting out first two rounds of playoffs

Tim Thomas made 31 saves for his first playoff shutout this season and rookie Tyler Seguin scored his fourth goal in the last three games as the Boston Bruins beat the Tampa Bay Lightning 2-0 in Game 3 of the NHL Eastern Conference finals Thursday night.

Thomas, the favourite to win the Vezina Trophy as the top regular-season goalie, gave up nine goals in the first two games of the series that the Bruins lead 2-1.

Seguin made it 2-0 from in-close at 8:12 of the third as the puck trickled between the legs of Lightning goalie Dwayne Roloson and into the net. The 19-year-old Seguin was inserted into the lineup to replace an injured Patrice Bergeron in Game 1 and has seven points overall.

David Krejci also scored for the Bruins.

Bergeron was back in the lineup after missing two games because of a concussion sustained when he was hit by Philadelphia's Claude Giroux in the final game of the second round.

Krejci was alone in the low slot and opened the scoring on a backhandler just 1:09 into the first. Boston is 7-0 during the post-season when scoring the first goal of the game.

Krejci was briefly shaken up late in the first when he was hit in the neutral zone by Tampa Bay defenceman Marc-Andre Bergeron, who received a minor penalty for elbowing.

Both teams were looking to play tighter defence after combining for 18 goals in the first two games.

Tampa Bay centre Steven Stamkos said before the game that the Lightning wanted to avoid "run-and-gun hockey." Boston centre Brad Marchand added that both teams hoped to "buckle down" on defence.
